

Joint Development of Pocket Doctor, a remote medical and health assistance service

OPTiM and MRT form a business alliance for IT medical service/health care

TOKYO, Japan (September 2, 2015) – OPTiM (TSE Mothers: 3694), a leading provider of business-related applications for smart devices, and MRT Inc. (TSE Mothers: 6034), a provider of medical information platforms, proudly announce that they have formed a business alliance for IT medical service/health care field, and will create new services in the field.

By combining OPTiM's remote support technology based on screen-sharing, MRT's abundant pool of medical information, and the network of Japan's doctors and medical institutions, we will cooperatively construct a service that allows people who have concerns about their health to easily get assistance from remote medical specialists. This service realizes sharing patient's complexion or affected area with a doctor using a camera on patient's smart device such as a smartphone, and allows much more professional medical advice. People can easily get prompt assistance not only when too busy to visit a medical institution, but also when in an area without enough doctors, while staying abroad or when wondering if it is necessary to rush to a hospital. Specific service contents and their starting time will be announced later.
